IIT-Gn set to study Narmada river basin

Indian Institute of Technology, Gandhinagar (IIT-Gn), and Indian Institute of Technology, Indore, are set to carry out a joint study on the condition of Assessment and Management Plan (CAMP) for Narmada river basin. To conduct the study along with other activities, a Centre for Narmada River Basin Management at IIT-Gn was inaugurated on Saturday.

Medha Patkar, a social activist who visited IIT-Gn on Saturday, talked about the significance of including tribals affected by the project. "We cannot exclude the adivasis while speaking about river ecology, therefore environmental impact assessment is just as essential as social impact assessment for the betterment of our Narmada basin," Patkar said.

The Centre was inaugurated by chief guest Ashok Thakur of Narmada Control Authority in the presence of Prof Rajat Moona, Director of IIT Gandhinagar, the Project In-charge and Co-project in-charge from IIT Gandhinagar and IIT Indore, besides important stakeholders of the Narmada river basin. AM
